The [illegible] been still further reduced. [illegible] and stores on hand exceed in [illegible] prices, $600,000.

[illegible] Excitement Allayed.

[illegible] April 4.—The excitement and [illegible] characterized speculation [illegible] yesterday were entirely [illegible] is firm and improved one [illegible] in dealings. The more confi[illegible] feeling which prevailed was due to [illegible] Prominent among them was [illegible] that a prominent capitalist, [illegible] to be H. H. Baxter, by others, [illegible] of Nevada, had come to the [illegible] Mr. Trenor W. Park and made ar[illegible] enable that gentleman to tide [illegible] embarrassments. It was [illegible] made by banks on stock had [illegible] by brokers. Favorable reports [illegible] of the railroad magnates in [illegible] up-town hotel indicated that a [illegible] had been effected and [illegible] shares of trunk lines.

Railroad War.

[illegible] April 5.—It is reported that the [illegible] the outcropping of a [illegible] Union Pacific and the Pana[illegible] it is the desire of the [illegible] control of the latter and [illegible] high rate of freight for all.

[illegible]

[illegible] April 4.—Before the stock ex[illegible] it was definitely announced to [illegible]'s office that all claims against [illegible] settled and closing quotations [illegible] stock was held at 5.00.

Money and Stocks.

[illegible] April 4.—Silver bars 1.23½ [illegible] gold; silver coin ½ dis[illegible] opened at 42, sold up to 5 and [illegible] money 4@5; governments dull [illegible] stocks active, with a better feel[illegible] Quicksilver 34; Pacific 8½; Wells Fargo 82½; N. [illegible] Suspension.

[illegible] April 3.—John Ponder, broker, [illegible] who suspended to-day on [illegible] the sudden decline in Panama [illegible] inability to settle his liabilities.

The Break in Panama.

[illegible] April 4.—The Post says the [illegible] yesterday afternoon in Panama [illegible] Pacific Mail have been [illegible] by a recovery in prices of each, [illegible] 87½@90, and the [illegible]. This reaction was caused [illegible] that yesterday the decline [illegible] of certain financial [illegible] Park, an officer [illegible] and a large holder of securi[illegible] It was reported that H. H. Baxter [illegible] the rescue of Park, and ad[illegible] a sufficient amount of [illegible] to prevent the [illegible] Pacific Mail stock either [illegible] by his own or other brok[illegible] of Fisk Bros. have also [illegible] the same way. At 1 [illegible] strong because of the [illegible] affairs and because of re[illegible] out of the railroad war is [illegible] week. In its financial column [illegible] Pacific Mail stock has not been [illegible] good collateral for loans for a long [illegible] accordingly money lenders can [illegible] interest in it. Panama stock has [illegible] is still considered as acceptable col[illegible]

T. W. Park's Broker.

[illegible] furnishes the following: Whilst [illegible] gavel was raised for the close [illegible] at the Stock Exchange yesterday [illegible]noon, a communication was handed in [illegible] John Ponder, 42 Exchange Place, an[illegible] his inability to meet his agreement. [illegible] known to be the broker of Trenor Park, president of the Panama railroad. [illegible] had been flying about for some [illegible] the parties' solvency, [illegible] of tremendous excitement ensued. It [illegible] that Park left Ponder in the lurch [illegible]. It was reported [illegible] Park had been unable to meet [illegible] large puts on Panama stock that had [illegible] within the past few days, the [illegible] being variously stated at from 5,000 [illegible] shares. Park could not be found in [illegible] usual haunts, and intimate friends [illegible] whom information might be obtained [illegible] mysteriously absent.

Hibernian Convention.

[illegible] YORK, April 5.—The convention of the [illegible] order of Hibernians, before adjourn[illegible] appointed a national directory of eight [illegible] to act with the national officers in [illegible] of the affairs of the order. [illegible]thing objectionable to the hierarchy of [illegible] Catholic Church was eliminated from the [illegible] and obligation of the order. The [illegible] number of members in the order is 172,[illegible] delegates present, 152, representing 26 [illegible]. An address was issued disclaiming [illegible] with and denouncing the Mollie [illegible] of Pennsylvania.

Railroad Sold.

[illegible] Peoria and Rock Island railroad was [illegible] with all appurtenances, to-day, at [illegible] under a decree of foreclosure of the [illegible] bondholders, to R. R. Cable, of [illegible] for $150,000, subject to an in[illegible] of $150,000.

Charlie Ross.

[illegible] YORK, April 4.—Christian K. Ross, [illegible] of Charlie, the missing boy, was at [illegible] making inquiries about a [illegible] answering the description of his son who [illegible] to be in San Francisco, and cor[illegible] has passed between the chief of [illegible] and the authorities there in regard [illegible] matter. Ross still believes the child [illegible] given up all hope of his re[illegible]

A Fiendish Murder.

[illegible] YORK, April 4.—A supposed French[illegible] entered a house in Twenty-seventh street [illegible] and taking Lucy Freeman aside and [illegible] of the [illegible] she was [illegible] lighted a match and set her clothing [illegible] ran into the parlor, thence [illegible] where policemen extinguished [illegible] but not before the girl was so badly [illegible] died soon after being taken to [illegible]

A Church Militant.

[illegible] April [illegible].—The New England Con[illegible] of the Methodist Episcopal Church [illegible] here this morning. The following [illegible] were offered and referred to a committee of five:

[illegible] That we are alarmed and filled with [illegible]sion for the future when we contemplate [illegible] practical sale of one of the great political par[illegible] by two politicians of that party [illegible] held and now hold very intimate rela[illegible] the President; thus sacrificing the princi[illegible] and righteousness for the sake of [illegible] success.

[illegible] That we protest most earnestly against [illegible] of the new administration in making [illegible] the chief of Kuklux and instigator of [illegible] massacres, M. C. Butler, and still more [illegible] do we protest against the official recog[illegible] by the administration of that arch-enemy [illegible] the Republic who long since ought to have been [illegible], Wade Hampton, of South Caro[illegible] who now by threats and intimidation [illegible] the very roof of the White House, as well as [illegible] railroad platforms and in other public places, [illegible] power of government and bullies the [illegible] into compliance with his traitorous and [illegible]

The resolutions were received with applause.

[illegible] Burned.

[illegible] April 4.—The postoffice at [illegible], Florida, burned last night; fix[illegible] property saved. The building [illegible] in the city, and used also for U. [illegible] other Federal purposes.

Fire.

[illegible] April 4.—Judge Taft's residence in Mt. Auburn, a suburb of this city, was partially burned this morning. Loss, $4,000.

AUGUSTINE, Del., April 4.—The paper mill of J. Jessup & Moore burned this afternoon. Estimated loss, $100,000; insurance not ascertained.

Marine Disaster.

NEW YORK, April 4.—A bark has arrived here with a crew of one vessel and a portion of another that had been in collision off the coast of England. One sank carrying down four seamen, and the other had to be abandoned.

Attempted Escape.

LOUISVILLE, April 4.—Henry Johnson, supposed leader of the bank burglars, before the commencement of his trial to-day sought to escape by descending 40 feet from a window in the court house. He used a small piece of twine, and had hardly proceeded four feet when it broke, allowing him to fall to the brick pavement, receiving serious injuries.

Rhode Island Election.

PROVIDENCE, April 4.—Present returns indicate that the Republican candidates for governor and lieutenant governor are elected by from 400 to 600 majority, and the remainder of the Republican State ticket by from 1,000 to 2,000 majority. The general assembly is undoubtedly Republican.

The Bender Family.

LITTLE ROCK, April 4.—The Gazette's special from Alma, Crawford county, gives the latest in regard to the Bender family; George Keafer and family, supposed to be the original family of Bender's, of murderous fame in Kansas, were arrested here to-day by Kansas detectives, who have been shadowing the Keafer family for quite a time and are confident that they have captured the right parties. The detectives have been for some time past working as farm laborers in this country, quietly watching the movements of their quarry upon whom they sprung the trap to day.

Returning Prodigals.

DEADWOOD, D. T., April 4.—A courier from Spotted Tail's band arrived at Capt. Vernon's camp here to-night, and reports Spotted Tail with Crazy Horse and 900 warriors camped on Belle Fourche about 50 miles north on the route to the agency to accept the terms of peace. Sitting Bull still holds out, but has but few warriors. The report causes great joy here.

Rifle Club Meeting.

NEW YORK, April 4.—At the annual meeting of the American rifle club to-night, officers were elected and a resolution adopted that, in view of the second match for the Centennial trophy coming on in September next by the rifle clubs of America, this club is compelled to decline the invitation of the Irish riflemen to shoot them a return match in Ireland next June.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Hampton goes Home.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Gov. Hampton left this morning for Columbia. He says the result of his recognition would be the best vindication of the wisdom of the President's policy, which would finally be sustained by the whole country.

The Whisky Suits.

The whisky ring are represented here to-day by an array of legal talent who are pleading that, since the government promised their clients immunity from criminal process, they should also be excused from civil suits, and claim that this was a part of the agreement. Half a million dollars is involved in the suits. Indications are they will go on.

Proposals Withdrawn.

The Postmaster-General has decided to withdraw the proposals for bids to furnish postal cards, and to readvertise for bids, first selecting a fabric which all paper manufacturers of the country can make. The one already advertised can be only made by a few firms in the country.

Rule for Making Appointments.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—In making appointments the President has adopted the general rule that where an officer has served four years in a satisfactory manner, the character of his official services will stand as a recommendation for reappointment unless there are well sustained objections of personal or moral character to the reappointment of the incumbent. Where however an officer serves for eight years, this period of servitude will operate against reappointment, the President holding that eight years is the maximum, provided an equally competent and meritorious man is an applicant for the place. The rule is to be specially applied to the appointment of postmasters, whose salaries exceed $1,000, and who are commissioned by the President. The rule will not be applied with the same rigor to postmasters whose salaries are below $1,000, and who are appointed under law by the Postmaster General. As to these postmasters who are commissioned by the President, there are about 1,600 who are required to receive their appointments from the President, and over 38,000 who are appointed by the Postmaster General.

The Patent Office Crowded.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The recent marked increase in the number of applications for patents is noted at the patent office and considered indicative of a general revival of business throughout the country. The receipts of the office last month were $750,000, being $12,000 more than the total receipts during February, and $20,000 more than the receipts for January.

Army Changes.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The following changes, in station paymasters of the army have been ordered: Major J. R. Keefer will report for duty in the department of Columbia; Major J. A. Watson in the department of Texas; Major J. B. M. Cotter in the department of California; Major J. W. Whan in the department of Cheyenne.

Secretary of Montana.

The President has appointed Jos. H. Mills, of Montana, secretary of the Territory of Montana.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Gov. McCormick entered upon his duties as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury to-day, Conant retiring.

Gen. Sherman and the Order.

Gen. Sherman went to Baltimore to-day to attend the wedding of Miss Barry, daughter of Gen. Barry, and in consequence the formal order directing the withdrawal of the troops from the State house at Columbia will not be issued until to morrow.

Chamberlain gone to New York.

The Special Session.

Respecting the rumor that it was the President's intention to call an extra session early in May, instead of June, on account of the extra amount of necessary legislation, the President says he told the Pacific coast Congressmen he should call the session on the 4th of June, and he knew no reason for changing his determination.

Gone Over to Hampton.

Upon the strength of another action, under the forms of law, Senator Patterson has had an interview with Hampton, and promised to work for peace and harmony in the State.

Chamberlain Feels Badly.

Chamberlain speaks privately very bitterly of the President, who, he thinks, has been grossly deceived by bad advisers.

A Little Canard.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The Tribune's Washington special says: There is a current gossip that a clique of officeholders under President Grant are laying wires for his second renomination. It is sent for its face value.

Cotton Ring Defeated.

The powerful cotton ring has just met its first defeat under this administration by the vindication of Noen, of the division of the bureau which passes on claims, against whom charges instituted by the ring were preferred.

Will Corbin Contest?

There is a general belief that Corbin will not contest for a seat in the Senate from South Carolina. There is not much doubt about the admission of Butler.

LOUISIANA.

Instructions to the Commission.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The following is the President's letter of instructions to the Louisiana Commission:

Gentlemen: I am instructed by the President to lay before you some observations upon the occasions and objects which have led him to invite you as members of the Commission about to visit Louisiana to undertake this public service. Upon assuming his office the President finds the situation of affairs in Louisiana such as to justly demand his prompt and solicitous attention. This situation presents as one of its features the apparent intervention of the military power of the United States in a domestic controversy which undoubtedly divides the opinions and disturbs the harmony of the people of that State. This intervention arising during the term and by the authority of his predecessor, throws no present duty upon the President except to examine and determine the extent, form and effect to which such intervention actually exists, and to decide as to the time, manner and conditions which should be observed in putting an end to it. It is to aid his intelligent and prompt discharge of this duty that the President has sought the service of this Commission, to supply by means of its examination, conducted in the State of Louisiana, some information that may be pertinent to the circumspection and security of any measures he may resolve upon. It will readily be understood that the service desired of this commission does not include any examination into or report upon the facts of the recent State election or of the canvass of votes cast at that election. So far as attention to that subject may be necessary, the President cannot but feel that the reports of the committees of the two Houses of Congress and other public information at hand, will dispense with and should preclude any original exploration by the commission of that field of inquiry; but it is most pertinent and important in coming to a decision upon the precise question of the executive duty before him that the President should know what are the real impediments to the regular legal and peaceful procedures under the laws and constitution of the State of Louisiana by which the anomalies in the government there presented, may be put in a course of settlement without employing the element of military power as either an agent or a make weight in such solution. The successful ascertainment of these impediments, the President would confidently expect would indicate to the people of that State the wisdom and mode of their removal. The great social and material interests common to the whole people of the State and the pride of American character as a law-abiding nation, ameliorate disappointments and dissolve resentments of close and zealous political contests, but the President both hopes and believes the great body of people of Louisiana are now prepared to treat the unsettled results of their State election with a calm and conciliatory spirit. If it be too much to expect complete concurrence in a single government for that State, at least the President may anticipate a submission to the peaceful resources of the laws and constitution of the State of all their dissensions, at once relieving themselves from reproach and their fellow-citizens of the United States from anxieties which must ever attend a prolonged dispute as to the title and administration of the government of one of the States of the Union. The President therefore desires you should devote your first and principal attention to the removal of the obstacles to an acknowledgment of one government for the purposes of an exercise of authority within the State and a representation of the State in its relations to the general government, under section 4 of article 4 of the constitution of the United States, leaving, if necessary, to judicial or other constitutional arbitraments within the State, the question of ultimate right. If these obstacles should prove insuperable, from whatever reason, and the hope of a single government, in all its departments, be disappointed, it should be your next endeavor to accomplish the recognition of a single legislature as a depository of the representative will of the people of Louisiana. This great department secured from dispute, the rest of the problem could be probably marked out by the prevalent authority which the legislative power, when undisputed, is quite competent to exert in composing conflicts in co-ordinate branches of the government. An attentive consideration of the conditions under which the Federal constitution and acts of Congress provide or permit military intervention, by the President, in the protection of a State against domestic violence, has satisfied the President that the use of his authority in determining or interfering in elections in a State is most carefully to be avoided. Undoubtedly, as held by the Supreme Court in the case of Luther vs Borden, an appeal from a State may involve such inquiry as to the lawfulness of the authority which invokes an interference of the President in supposed pursuance of the constitution, but it is equally true that neither the constitutional provisions nor acts of Congress were framed with any such design. Both obviously treated the case of domestic violence within a State as an outbreak against law and the authority of the established government, which the State was unable to suppress by its own strength. A case wherein every department of the State government has a disputed representative, and the State therefore furnishes to the federal government no internal political recognition of authority upon which the federal Executive can rely, will present a case of so much difficulty that it is of pressing importance to all the interests in Louisiana that it should be avoided. A single Legislature would greatly relieve this difficulty, for that department of the State government is named by the constitution as the necessary applicant, when it can be convened, for military intervention by the United States. If, therefore, the disputing interests can concur in or be reduced to a single Legislature for the State of Louisiana, it would be a great step in composing this unhappy strife. The President leaves entirely to the commission the conciliatory influences which in their judgment, formed on the spot, may seem to them to conduce to the proposed end. His determination that only public considerations should inspire and attend this effort to give ascendency in Louisiana to things that belong to peace, is evinced by his selection of commissioners who offer to the country in their character, every guaranty of their public motives and the methods of transaction which they have undertaken. Your report of the result of this endeavor will satisfy the President, he does not doubt the wisdom of his selection and his plenary trust in the commission. A second and less important subject of attention during the visit to New Orleans will be the collection of accurate and trustworthy information from public officers and prominent citizens of all political connections as to the state of public feeling and opinion in the community at large upon the questions which affect the peaceful and safe exercise in the State of Louisiana of all legal and political privileges conferred by the constitution of the United States upon all citizens. The maintenance and protection of these rights and privileges by all constitutional means and every just moral and social influence are the settled purposes of the President in his administration of the government. He will hope to learn from your investigations that this purpose will be aided and not resisted by the substantial and effective public opinion of the great body of the people of Louisiana. The President does not wish to impose any limit upon your stay in Louisiana that would tend to defeat the full objects of your visit; he is however extremely desirous to find it in his power at the earliest day compatible with a safe exercise of that authority to put an end to every appearance of military intervention in the domestic affairs of Louisiana and awaits your return with the confident hope that your report will enable him promptly to execute a purpose he has so much at heart. The President desires me to add that the publication of the result of your visit he shall hope to make immediately after their communication to him. I have the honor to be with great respect, your obedient servant,

WM. M. EVARTS,
Secretary of State.

Charge of Treason Dismissed.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—Judge W. R. Whitaker, of the Superior District Court, on motion of the Attorney General, ordered the charge of treason against Packard's recruiting officers dismissed, and the prisoners, nine in number, who were confined in the parish prison, released from custody. The Attorney General, however, gave notice that should any one hereafter be guilty of the same crime, the offended would be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Gone Over to Nicholls.

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—T. T. Allvin, colored, one of the holding-over Senators, who has heretofore affiliated with the Packard legislature, to-day took a seat in the Nicholls Senate.

The Commission's Work.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Members of the Louisiana commission will reach New Orleans on Friday and hold their first session on Saturday.

The President's Policy and the Colored People.

The report of the interview of Senator Bruce and Representative Lynch, colored of Mississippi, with the President, stating that they called to urge him not to withdraw the troops from South Carolina is contradicted, and Lynch states that while it was a source of regret to him that the administration could not see its way clear to recognize and support the government in South Carolina, of which Chamberlain is the head, still from several interviews with him on the Southern situation, he is thoroughly satisfied that the President is actuated by the best of intentions and purest of motives, and that he is a true friend of the colored people. It would be the result of mistaken judgment, Lynch believes, the colored people should support the administration until they have had stronger reasons for doing otherwise than have yet been presented.

The land office at Colfax, W. T., has not yet been opened. It is much needed.

TWEED'S ESCAPE.

His Wanderings, Capture and Return.

Romantic Adventures of the Boss.

His Speedy Release Promised.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The following is the account of Tweed's escape, his wanderings, capture and return, as published by Harper's Weekly:

His money gone, his courage broke down also, Tweed resolved on flight as a remedy both for bankruptcy and his hopeless imprisonment. Could he obtain his liberty, he thought to save some fragments of his estate. His costly and numerous counselors had deserted him in battalions, and with his shrinking purse came not only a change of his temper but of his advisers and followers—in short, having lost the great judges and lawyers of the courts he had created and controlled, he found himself forced to fall back upon their clients his fellow-prisoners of the jail. Tweed's messmate in jail was Charley Lawrence, a silk smuggler, whose extradition led to the abrogation of the treaty with England. He had previously chummed with Tweed in the more agreeable sphere of the Americus Club. From him Tweed learned all the details of existing treaties and laws on the subject, and having concluded on flight, resolved to reach Spain as most expedient to seek shelter in. Another of the inmates of Ludlow street jail was Bliss, the engineer of the Northampton bank robbery, also engaged in the Washington safe burglary, who first suggested flight. Tweed at first would not listen to it, but meeting his professional neighbor daily, the subject was more definitely discussed, and outside friends of the profession being called in, Tweed was persuaded of the practicability of a plan which they presented, and for the execution of which he engaged to pay a stipulated amount of money. Flight, he had reasoned, must be his only relief. His conferences with his new advisers, convinced him that this step must be taken with such absoluteness as to have no confidants or knowledge of his plans except his own friends. He must surrender himself exclusively to the control of those who undertook the job. Accordingly, no member of his family nor his counsel, nor any friend or person of his previous connection knew of his proposed flight, neither did they know of his whereabouts at any time until it had become necessary for him to communicate to them his arrest in Cuba by Spanish officers. Tweed understood that he was to be taken in charge by a well organized body of men distributed throughout the country having every facility, their connections and method being thoroughly tested and well established. He was furnished with a short key for telegraphic communication and one for postal facilities; the latter included the system of enclosure through five different envelopes with addresses at removed points. He was to visit his house on Fifth avenue and deliver himself over secretly and unattended at his own door. The execution of agreement included his landing in Spain or under the Spanish flag and on Spanish territory safely and secretly. He was given the name of John Secor, by which he was to be known to his new connections. His personal identity and his own name was to be concealed. The exact minute of his departure was fixed at 8 P. M., the time of his flight was left undetermined, but he was to visit his house on certain days, and when the whole train was ready a sign was to be given by a certain

SECRET MARK

Upon the stoop which he could see as he ascended the steps. Accordingly Tweed took occasion to obtain from the sheriff his usual privilege of the jail yard to visit his family and transact some business. He made several such visits, until finally the 4th of December arrived. On the evening of that day he was driven in the customary hack by two keepers to his house. Ascending the stoop he saw the sign, which greatly excited him. Controlling himself he led his attendants to the usual feast. Tweed says the keepers ate heartily and he took good care that they drank at just the right moment. One of his keepers rose and went to the wash basin to wash his hands. Tweed took the opportunity, rose, and saying he would wash in an adjoining room, he instantly seized his hat and overcoat and slipped out at the front door. He saw a hack before the door without a driver, who also took advantage of the occasion in the kitchen. Not a person or sound appeared to respond to his appointment. It was not quite one minute past eight. Revulsion of his previous excitement seemed to have set in and he began to experience peculiar sensations. He had stolen forth from his home to put himself in the hands and guidance of a picked gang of desperadoes. As he shrank back under the shade of the stoop he saw a tradesman's wagon drive up and the man inside signalled him to get in, which he did. The wagon was driven rapidly in Madison avenue, but there had to stop among a lot of citizens and mounted police, who were putting a displaced car on the track. He describes his feelings while here as terrible. The wagon soon started and drove zigzag across the city to North river, where he was taken into a row boat and landed

IN A LONELY SPOT

In the palisades, not far from the well-known spot where Hamilton was killed by Aaron Burr. After a lonely ride of three-quarters of an hour, the wagon stopped in front of a dilapidated homestead, where Tweed was met by another of his new friends, who greeted him quietly with assurances of kindness and safety in this refuge. Tweed continued here until about the first week in March. After a fitful night's rest, the fugitive rose to realize he was an exile at his own threshold, as it were. From neighboring bluffs of the hills he could see his home in New York, which he dared not visit, and where he was born and raised. His present resting place was intended to last until it was convenient for him to start for Spain, after a little further delay for preparations; but it was months before he set out, or could tear himself away from New York. His first care in the morning was to put on a disguise and transform himself into his assumed personality, John Secor, an invalid gentleman seeking merely a little rest and fresh air, as well as relief from business pressures.

A WIG AND GOLD SPECTACLES.

His whiskers being shaved off and his hair clipped short, he put on a wig. The removal of his whiskers gave his features, his jaws and cheek bones greater prominence, and with the wig and a pair of gold spectacles, he was quite transformed. The wig was of reddish yellow hair, crinkled or curled, in appearance, cut square and quite well down his neck. Next he got newspapers to read accounts of his escape, which was the most striking sensation to him. He continued to get newspapers regularly during his voyage. His routine was monotonous; his only exercise was a short walk daily in the morning. It was during this opportunity of quiet and meditation that a striking mental change began, which has been observed in him since his return, and which scattered indications in brief diaries which he kept, clearly indicate. It is important to note this here, as a key to the concluding events of his extraordinary story. Tweed watched the progress of the proceedings against him after his flight, keeping himself thoroughly posted. He saw the defeat of the motion for dismissal, and scanned with wonder the unprecedented and then novel proceedings of a "struck jury" of course he could know nothing of the secret councils held by his juniors at the sick bed of O'Conor. The latter was at Washington quite in sight of the hiding place of the fugitive, and suddenly returning from his long extraordinary lethargy, he became convalescent, got out of bed and rivaled Tweed himself in his growing interest in the trial. Tweed had made definite plans for his future, but once at large, he lingered intensely anxious that the result of the trial might admit of his return. He saw by reports that the adroitness of David Dudley Field, in the absence of O'Conor, indicated an easy road of junior counsel into whose hands the case for the people had dropped. Witnesses came on the stand from the public offices; from the city banks; Carvey and Ingersoll came; Tilden was put to question; Tweed watched it all; he was certain from appearances that the prosecution of the suit was a break down.

Tweed had been an exile now three months. His suspense had become intense. He continued under the control of the two men who had managed his escape, and contracted for his safety. He did implicitly what they directed, and they held him in hand like a trained animal. He slept, rose, walked and drunk only as they instructed him, and this discipline and ration were maintained until he closed his engagement with satisfaction in Florida. Tweed was suddenly startled by the announcement that

O'CONOR HAD REAPPEARED

In his case. Of all the resurrections and ghosts this seemed the most terrible to him. All hopes seemed vanished. He had conjectured some brilliant technical stroke by his counsel which would quash the whole thing, as they did before the court of appeals. He had estimated the probabilities of hanging the jury on some disagreement, but the advent of O'Conor dissolved all. He did not wait for the end. He again gathered up his now scanty effects. If he (Tweed) did not make an end of this thing, O'Conor never would. Tweed next took up his abode at an abandoned fisherman's hut on Staten Island, near the Narrows, with his two companions. Here the party stayed two weeks. From here he crossed the channel one night and slept in Brooklyn. How he escaped the vigilance of the detectives on his track is a miracle, during his stay on Staten Island. In a

FAST SAILING SCHOONER,

Fitted and manned by himself, two companions and a negro boy, he started at last; slipped away upon a pleasant breeze, and in due course of time they reached the lagoons on the coast of Florida. At one of the lighthouse stations they made definite stoppage again, Tweed taking board with the keeper as John Secor, an invalid gentleman, seeking restoration of health in the recreations of fishing and hunting. Here he parted with his guides from New York, closing the contract with them at that place. In this lonely shelter he took a melancholy meditative rest. He experienced for the first time in years a feeling of perfect peace and safety which began to fascinate him. Communication was easily had with the main land, and the facilities of the mails and the indispensible newspapers were within easy reach. Tweed was here joined by Hunt, who was a practical hunter and guide. His chief resource of profit was to pilot pleasure parties who visited Florida during the winter months. He led Tweed into the interior, where he remained hunting and fishing till the climate became too hot, when he took up his abode in the neighborhood of St. Augustine. Here he deliberately planned a new sphere and new life of usefulness if not reparation. When he left this place in a fishing smack for Cuba, he had completed a definite set of plans to be carried out on his arrival in Spain. Some 40 miles sail brought Tweed and his companion to the coast of Cuba, 10 miles outside the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. The fisherman who brought them from the American coast did not dare to confront the Spanish officials with freight which he strongly suspected was contraband.

TWEED IN CUBA.

It was a bright moonlight night as they made the point chosen for landing. Tweed had already become habituated to the byways frequented by his guides and even where he might have taken one of the regular steamers plying among the West Indian ports, he quite naturally continued as he had started, keeping himself away from the regular channels in which he might be inconveniently recognized. There was no kind of habitation within sight, and the hour, notwithstanding the moonlight, precluded search. Hunt wrapped himself in a blanket and was asleep on the rock where they were left by the skipper. Camping out had been their custom for several months. Avoiding towns and settlements, they finally came in sight of a fisherman's hut on the bay and engaged a fisherman to take them to Santiago de Cuba, and on arrival there were met by a custom house officer who demanded passports. Not being able to comply they were arrested and placed on board the Spanish man-of-war Cherucca. This was on the 12th of June, 1876, and he was released on the 23d. The change and arrival of a new captain general at Havana had caused both suspicion and delay in their case. Cuban patriots were manifesting much activity, and all American arrivals were strictly watched. Then a variety of rumors had started about the two men arriving in a mysterious manner, which, although subjecting them to strict surveillance, secured them, nevertheless, distinguished and courteous entertainment by the officers of the Spanish man-of-war. Tweed's diary contains the names of these officers in detail, and indicates a familiar and kindly intercourse with the captain of the port until Alfred Young, American consul, procured their release on parole, by becoming bond for them. They were accordingly able to take up their quarters at the principal hotel until their case should be passed upon at Havana. The routine here was merely one of delay. Tweed notes his walks, rides, the churches and buildings, holidays and their negro processions and carnivals. His social contact, through the American, French and English consuls resident, with the local society seems to have been free and cordial, with dinners, picnics and excursions around the city. On the 30th of June, Consul General Hall telegraphed a reply to Young, the case of Secor and Hunt will be attended to as soon as the papers arrive. A couple of captains of American merchant vessels also delayed for custom house infractions made his companions at the hotel, and afforded him sympathetic concert in maledictions against Spanish embargoes. On the 2d of July the telegraph announced the nominations of Tilden and Hendricks, of which ticket his anticipations were not altogether cheerful. Tweed originally contemplated making Brazil his place of refuge, but the arrival of Dom Pedro in the United States made the idea unadvisable. The Centennial of America, the Fourth of July, was duly celebrated by fireworks in the evening from the balcony of the hotel, the demonstration being highly appreciated by a concourse of the "chattels." On the 7th of July, having been detained a month, he concluded to settle down and make the best of it by employing a teacher of Spanish, utilizing the time by acquiring a knowledge of the language. On the 11th, he notes the receipt of funds and sale of his bill on the United States. He began to grow nervous, and worried about his case at Havana, and waited with anxiety for every mail. In view of the prospect of detention, he began to look about for a house to rent, complaining nevertheless of intolerable oppression of the climate, which began to tell on his health. The departure of his friend the American consul, on a furlough to the United States, he mentions enviously, as also on the same day he chronicles gloomily the execution of a person who is taken out and shot in the outskirts of the city. He saw the parade of the victim through the town, escorted by a guard of soldiers and a band of music. At the place of execution the man was put on his knees, blindfolded, with his back to the soldiers, and shot; a little harder than three millions' bail.

OFF FOR SPAIN.

At last the Vice Consul and Consul General, Captain of the port and Admiral of Marine at Havana were brought into the record, and he was permitted to engage passage in the Spanish bark Carmen for Barcelona and Vigo, having given security to report at Vigo to the captain of the port there. He went on board and sailed on the 27th of July, paying $548 for himself and companion as cost of the trip. There was nothing unusual during the voyage. He was troubled with seasickness continually, which reduced his weight largely. The story that he shipped as a sailor was erroneous. On the 6th of September the Carmen arrived in the bay of Vigo after a voyage of 42 days; where he was formally arrested. All his effects were taken from him and he was confined in the fortress as a prisoner of state. Here his condition was pitiable. Unable to speak the language sufficiently plain, he could only conjecture the cause of his arrest, and his quarters were anything but enviable. One morning when the woman who took charge of the rooms brought their food from the hotel she attracted his attention by her gestures to a slop bucket she had just emptied. After she had left with the sentinel who always watched her when she came, Tweed examined the empty bucket and found she had left him a note from his son and an answer was put in the bedclothes next morning, which the chambermaid duly found and delivered. In this manner Tweed came to learn something of the new phase of the case. He learned he was held by the Spanish government and was

SUPPOSED TO BE SECRETARY BELKNAP,

A fugitive Minister of War of the United States, and this at least gave him a prospect of release, his imprisonment being based on some mistake or Spanish blunder. Another scene which grew out of the new postal arrangement was the finding of one of the epistles placed in the bed clothes by the chambermaid. One of these happened to fall into the hands of Hunt, who observed that the address to John Secor was superseded by what had, until then, been unknown to him, the real name of his companion, William M. Tweed. There was not much comfortable feeling possible between them for the remainder of the fourteen days of their incarceration. By that time the Franklin had arrived, and they were taken duly on board where explanation was more practicable. Hunt was clamorous on the way to the ship, when he learned of the presence of the United States consular agent protesting his American citizenship, his rights and his entire ignorance of Tweed as such, until discovered in the castle. Once

ON BOARD THE FRANKLIN,

Tweed found a solid and intelligible ground to occupy. The commander said as he received him from the Spanish soldiers and officers, that his instructions were to bring Tweed to New York, and to Tweed he also said what his mission was, and producing a photograph, said he was satisfied to receipt for him and bear him back accordingly, assuring him of his kindest feelings, and of every courtesy and attention on the voyage, placing at his disposal one of his best state rooms, and extending to him the privileges of the officers' mess. As to Hunt, the commander had no knowledge, and would, if requested, extend to him the same privileges, or he was free to go ashore if he preferred. Tweed's son had liberty to communicate freely with his father, which he availed himself of. As to Hunt he speedily took himself out of sight of Tweed and went off; returning however in restored good nature with young Tweed, when he found there was no more danger of detention. As a token of reconciliation and fraternity too, he left as a little keepsake, the usual compliments of a certain class on parting with their friends in difficulty, a file, a whip-saw and a jimmy chisel.

The rest of the story of Tweed up to his return to Ludlow Street jail again, has been widely published already. He was handed over to the sheriff on the 23d of November, 1876. Secluding himself from lawyers and reporters, he has maintained to the public an absolute silence since his return. The following

LETTER TO CHAS. O'CONOR

Will show, however, that he had adopted an intelligent though an unaltered course toward the public:

LUDLOW STREET JAIL, Dec. 5, 1876.

CHAS. O'CONOR, Esq.—Sir: I claim the liberty of addressing you this letter, in view of the fact that your position as counsel, designated by the State authorities in my matters, [illegible] possible good regardless of any factions or persons. I therefore I have met my trouble with every resource at my disposal. Probably in a mistaken sense of my duty I have stood up so long to shield others as well as myself, bearing such losses and punishment as were meted to my transgressions and my misfortunes. It was truly more in interest of others than my own that the litigations and resistance were prolonged. Viewing the matter of my return to the wards of this prison, and realizing the events in the city, in the State and in the nation which I am brought here to confront, it will not, I hope, seem to be a presumption or insincerity in me to say I am indeed overwhelmed, that all further resistance being hopeless, I have none now to make, and only seek the shortest and most efficient manner in which I may make an unqualified surrender. It is not my purpose to dispute or appeal or further resist the suits which you have against me in the name of the State and people. I propose forthwith to place at your disposal a full surrender of all I have left of property or effects, and respond at once to such examination in this connection as may assure you and the public of the good faith of this [illegible], as well as show the entire amount and disposition of all I am possessed of as far as may want to be de[illegible]ed. I am an old man, greatly broken in health, cut down in spirit, and cannot longer bear my burden. To mitigate the prospect of hopeless imprisonment which must speedily terminate my life, I should, it seems to me, make any sacrifice or effort. During the early stages of the proceedings against me I was ready to make restitution and reparation as far as in my power. Entanglement with interests and counsels of others delayed and defeated this. I regret that my means have now become so utterly inadequate. I would not make the futile offer if I had not some assurance through your published statements that you seek only the vindication of principle and promise of permanently purifying the public service or the recovery of the money. If in any manner you may see fit to use me in such connection, I shall be only too glad to respond. Trusting implicitly in your high reputation and character, I ask to make only

A SINGLE RESERVATION,

Not as regards myself, but wherever others may be concerned, leaving my personal and property interests to be put to the fullest test of examination and publicity, I would hope to have any matters affecting other persons restricted to your private knowledge and discretion, knowing, as you do, every material fact already. It would be unavailing for me further to resist or withhold any details you may demand. I only ask, in qualification of the utmost frankness, that your more reliable judgment shall take the responsibility of publication and the use of such matters only as may be necessary for the ends you wish to advance. For the present I have no legal counsel; I shall not employ any except to act in the spirit of this communication, and conform to the usages of the courts.

I send this by Foster Dewey, whom I have heretofore employed as secretary. He is directed to receive from you any intimations or suggestions and answer in detail as to my circumstances.

I remain, very truly, yours, WM. M. TWEED.

It is understood O'Conor sent this letter to Attorney General Fairchild with his favorable recommendation, and that O'Conor also signified his intention to terminate his more active connection with the ring prosecutions now practically ended. Acting upon this view, the Attorney General has himself made several visits to Tweed, and has carried out the examinations of the effects especially which Tweed has to turn over. A large pile of checks, vouchers and evidence is accordingly in the control of Attorney General Fairchild at this time. His release has been provisionally agreed to already and will, as soon as the due forms are complied with, be carried into effect. As to what may become of Tweed when he has surrendered all his property and turned over his papers, it can only be said that his flight was not altogether that of an aimless fugitive. He intended to enter upon an important railroad work in Spain, which may still engage him if he sees his way to it upon his release. He was 54 years old April 3d. It is well known O'Conor is in possession of many facts and undoubted proofs, derived from Tweed, seriously compromising various parties who had been associated with him or shared more or less directly in his plunder. Some of these are intended to be made public, but are temporarily withheld for prudential reasons. Some of the disclosures certainly compromise A. Oakey Hall and may account for his disappearance.

A Stir over Tweed's Disclosure.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Great efforts to prevent the consummation of the compromise by the release of Tweed, were made the past week by the men still in the legislature and courts, said to be most involved in the expected disclosures regarding the passage of the Tweed charter. Among the documents in the hands of Harper Bros. for future publication, is said to be the evidence that $250,000 was divided among five Republican legislators to secure the passage of the charter. The suppression of this evidence, it is understood, will depend upon the alacrity with which those who received it, repay it to the State.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Full Returns from Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The following are the figures of the election held yesterday for city officers. In each case the Republican candidate was elected: For mayor, Heath 30,361, Smith 18,703; treasurer, Larrabee 27,964, Haynes 21,577; clerk, Ruiz 28,310, Ruhmann 20,886. The council is largely Republican; but, as in some wards party lines were not drawn, the victory in that branch of the government is rather one of reform than one of party.

St. Louis City Election.

ST. LOUIS, April 3.—Returns from 41 of 185 precincts give Henry Overstolz 1,459 majority over Nat. C. Hudson for Mayor. Overstolz was nominee of the regular Democratic Convention, and was endorsed by the regular Republican Convention. Hudson was placed in the field by a fusion of Democrats and Republicans who repudiated the action of the regular Conventions. Appearances now indicate that Overstolz will [illegible] 5,000 majority. One hundred and four precincts give Overstolz 6,143 majority. He will probably have a majority of 8,000. Remainder of the ticket not counted. A majority of [illegible] city officers elected.

Leavenworth City Election.

LEAVENWORTH, April 4.—In the municipal election yesterday the Democrats elected a mayor, the balance of the ticket being about equally divided.

Omaha Election.

OMAHA, April 4.—The city election yesterday resulted in a victory for the Republicans, except Treasurer.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Looking Toward War.

LONDON, April 5.—The Times remarks a lack of elation in public feeling at the signature of the protocol, and weighing various influences which might incline Russia to go to war, says it is doubtless true that war can only be carried on at tremendous [illegible] with anything to lose know this and cannot [illegible] to cool [illegible]. All intelligence from St. Petersburg and the capitals of the empire confirms this [illegible], but at the same time, accounts of Russian war preparations are too numerous and consistent to be fictitious.

THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 5, 1877.

PARTY ACROBATICS.

Persons who are curious in such things may easily find many pregnant illustrations of a certain remarkable fact in the history of political parties, namely, that fixed principles are rarely followed on questions of constitutional construction or political action, but all parties change front as their present interests seem to require. Several years ago the Republicans passed an act to give the Clerk of the House of Representatives the power to make up the roll of members and to report the same on the the meeting of Congress. There are always contested seats, and when the House is a close one as between the parties, the Clerk who naturally decides, in all cases of doubt, in favor of his own party, could be of material service in helping his party friends to secure the new organization. The next House will be very close, and now the Republicans are full of fear that their chickens will come home to roost. It is conceded that the action of the Clerk may possibly be decisive in the organization of the House; and yet Republicans are precluded from making complaint, unless they are willing to be charged with self-stultification. Democrats denounced the expedient when it was first adopted; now they are highly pleased with it. Republicans were delighted with the invention when it was new; now they are convinced that it is not a good and proper thing.

Another and more striking instance of the reversal of the position of parties is seen in the course pursued in the matter of employing troops to support the claims of persons who may assert the right to executive authority in a State, or the pretensions of bodies claiming the right to exercise legislative powers. It will be remembered that Congress adjourned on the 4th March without making an appropriation for the support of the army. The refusal to make such provision was based on the allegation that the troops were employed contrary to law and right to uphold party authority in certain Southern States. Now this was simply a repetition of the tactics of the Republicans twenty years ago. Democrats then had a majority in the Senate, and Republicans in the House. That was when the rival Legislatures made music in Kansas, and the troops were employed to support the authority of the one that was favored by the administration. The Republicans of the House refused to pass the army bill unless a proviso were inserted that no troops should be employed to enforce the enactments of the Democratic government in Kansas. Every Democratic vote was thrown against this proviso, and every Republican vote for it; and Congress adjourned without passing the bill. A special session became necessary to provide means of supporting the army, just as a special session is necessary now for a like reason. The parallel is complete throughout; the attitude of the two parties is exactly reversed. Every Democratic vote was thrown recently against the identical principle and the very measure for which every Democratic vote was given twenty years ago; every Republican vote was recorded at the late session for the very thing against which every Republican voted in the days when freedom shrieked in Kansas. These are instructive facts. They show that on the most important questions representatives of the different parties habitually vote as party interests seem to dictate, without regard to higher principle.

CHAMBERLAIN.

No doubt Chamberlain's anticipation of what is to come in South Carolina is partly correct. Republicans in the State will lose all political power; yet it may be regained if the new policy succeeds in dividing the white vote and establishing parties on some other principle of division than the color line. Of this result, however, it is not well to be too sanguine. In all probability it will take some years to produce any sensible effect. One thing is very certain: so long as political parties maintain their present status, there can be no well-founded hope of satisfactory results in politics in the Southern States. This fact is clearly perceived, and is the basis of the new policy which the administration has introduced. It is impossible to avoid the admission that Chamberlain's title rests under a serious cloud. Apart from the fact that the returns showed on their face a majority for his opponent, though this indeed might be reversed by furnishing proof of the great frauds charged to have been perpetrated, yet there is another and even more serious difficulty. The law of the State makes it the duty of the legislative assembly to canvass the vote for Governor. In the body which canvassed the vote and declared Chamberlain elected, there was no lawful quorum. Hampton, indeed, is in a similar position, but behind him is a decision of the Supreme Court of the State commanding the returning board to count returns for Hampton which, if counted, would give him a majority. These statements show some of the legal difficulties of the situation. Chamberlain himself is a man of ability and character. His name is stained by no transactions, or even charges, of dishonesty. As executive of the State he has borne a first-rate reputation; he has repeatedly thrown himself into the breach to beat back schemes of plunder urged by members of his own party. He has had the respect of the country, and though he cannot maintain himself further amid the embarrassments and complications that surround him, no one has license to call him a dishonored man.

MINING INTERESTS.

It has long been believed by persons who have paid attention to the subject and who have had opportunities for inquiry and observation, that immense wealth of precious metals would at no distant time be developed in the eastern portion of our State. Frequent attempts have been made to work lodes in different places, and at times with promise of fair success. In but few instances, however, has the work been prosecuted to any extensive degree; the risks of such enterprises are large, and the expense of machinery, transportation and labor forbids the success of effort not backed by capital ample enough to overcome all obstacles. Yet it is well known that lodes which afford indications of great results abound in many localities, and of late the mining interest in Eastern Oregon is becoming an object of renewed and increased attention. Specimens from the Monumental mine, situated in the Granite Creek district, Grant county, are on exhibition in Portland. The rock is undeniably rich. Assays show remarkable results. The specimens are no doubt picked rock, since no ledge could boast such value throughout. But the proprietors express confidence that they have a paying mine. Their shaft is down one hundred and ten feet, and at different levels they have run in drifts on the ledge, which shows good rock wherever they reach it. This is but a single instance. The development of quartz mining in Eastern Oregon which will undoubtedly be made in the course of time, will vastly accelerate the progress of all other interests of the State.

California journals generally, including such as oppose the immigration of Chinese and seek to check it, speak in terms of great severity of the ruffianly class who to a great extent constitute the members that fill up certain organizations known as the "Laborers' Union" and the like. The Record-Union of Sacramento says that the organization with which the Chico assassins were connected appears to be an association of cowardly cutthroats, and that the principal aim of the order seems to be to commit crime and to incite it. None of the persons arrested for the crime at Chico are known as reputable and industrious laboring men. They are mostly loafers whose solicitude for the rights of labor manifests itself mainly in warfare on Chinese who are wicked enough to work. A few good men do indeed belong to the order, but only low characters are members of the secret executive council.

It will be generally admitted, we think, that the brethren who introduced the resolutions in the M. E. Conference at Boston, reported to-day, are rather hasty and too dogmatical by half. The two men who are accused of selling out the administration on the Southern question are probably Stanley Matthews and Charles Foster. Tastes will differ, but there are those who think that the loud declamation and fierce rhetoric of these resolutions would better beseem a party club meeting where "buncombe" is never out of order.

Municipal elections, held in many cities over a wide area of country, show Republican successes of a very remarkable kind. Chicago, which gave Tilden 5,000 majority, goes 12,000 Republican; Cincinnati, which gave Tilden a majority, likewise reverses it. Facts like these, following upon the Republican triumph in New Hampshire, indicate that the Republican party has begun to renew its strength since President Hayes took in hand the correction of abuses and mistakes.

Senator Morgan (Dem.), of Alabama, spoke earnestly in favor of the confirmation of Frederick Douglass. He declared that his party in Alabama had invited the co-operation of the colored people and had received the votes of many thousands of them in the Presidential election, and that he would support at any time a suitable colored man for official position.

This is the way the Chicago Tribune treats the proposition to help the Texas Pacific road. It indicates the attitude of many powerful newspapers on the question of further aid for railroads:

"The South needs internal improvement," cry the Tom Scott newspapers. So does a man with dyspepsia. Why not have the Government issue bonds to buy vegetable pills for the afflicted?

O. A. Hall, who has received so much attention in the dispatches for a few days past, is evidently in London. Whether to be secure from the "minions of the law" or on a kind of a "lark" appears not to be settled.

BRIEF NOTES.

Fruit trees budding.

Light mails yesterday.

Concert Friday evening.

Frog concerts are in order.

Boating season near at hand.

A big Eastern mail by steamer.

Hang your ulsters up for the season.

More new immigrants on the steamer.

Private masquerade party last evening.

Unpaid county taxes are delinquent now.

Eternal vigilance is the price of an umbrella.

Mr. Dickenson has received a patent for his life-boat.

Plum and peach trees are shedding their blossoms.

The steamer Elder brought up over 1,200 tons of assorted cargo.

"Our Boys," the great sensational London comedy, at New Market theater.

Rehearsal for the concert to-night at Amateur Musical Society's rooms.

Look out for "John Garth," which had such a wonderful run at Wallack's.

John Jack and his company will return from The Dalles to-morrow evening.

Thanks to our Olympia correspondent for items. Hope to hear from him again.

Supervisors will soon commence to improve the county roads. Certainly they need it bad enough.

Mr. Wm. Doran, one of the O. S. N. Co.'s trustiest engineers is now in the city on a short visit.

U. S. circuit court will convene to-morrow (Friday) morning at the usual hour instead of Saturday.

Spring has come, but no spring chickens have warmed the heart or tickled the palate of the average epicure.

What in the world will come next. Some lunatic has manufactured a new brand of cigars called "Bulldozer."

The box sheet for the concert on Friday evening next will open at Morse's Music Palace this morning at 9 o'clock.

The school question has been solved. The smoke of battle has rolled away, and the dead and wounded have been counted.

The sheriff of Lane county arrived here Tuesday, having in charge an insane patient who was committed to the asylum.

We would like to see a set of original resolutions expressive of respect to the memory of a deceased person, just for a change.

We are in receipt of the tenth annual report of the Oregon Children's Aid Society, together with a brief history of its organization.

Some people will always borrow trouble. We hear some persons already wondering if Portland is going to have another flood this summer.

But yet a little while and it will be time for the evil disposed tramp to steal a linen suit and repair to the "rural districts" for a season of elegant leisure.

Benevolent persons who desire to assist a most praiseworthy institution (St. Vincent's Hospital) should not fail to purchase a ticket for the concert to-morrow evening.

In the spring a maiden's fancy turns to thoughts of love, you know, while her old bald-headed parent grasps a spade and directs his energies to agricultural pursuits.

Reportorial life does sometimes become a trifle monotonous. No person has called at this office with a stuffed club for some time looking after the man who wrote "that item."

A cynical fellow who hasn't a drop of the milk of human kindness describes the "coming bonnet" as follows: The new bonnet looks like a high toned, small sized coal scuttle with a couple of bouquets stuck in the gable end.

Messrs. Richards & Rogers, of this city, have bought 117 tons of iron from the the Oregon Iron Works, which they intend to convert into stoves for supplying home demand.

The energetic street cleaner was observed to hitch up his overalls yesterday. Ere long he will be scraping over the surface and erecting little mounds, but as this doesn't hurt the street, and seems to amuse the scraper, why let it go on.

THE COURTS.

Wednesday, April 4, 1877.

U. S. vs Thomas W. Stewart; defendant arraigned and plea of not guilty entered.

U. S. vs H. A. Barr; order that defendant appear to-morrow morning for arraignment and plea unless objections to the indictment are filed before that time.

Order that a warrant of $13 50 be drawn in favor of Geo. W. Hoyt.

Order accepting the resignation of A. F. Dunbar, constable for Sandy precinct.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

A pleasant masquerade surprise party was given to Mr. John Raleigh and wife last evening. The company remained until a very late hour.

The Waverly Club close the season with a hop at Turn Halle to-night. The management have completed all arrangements to insure those holding invitations a pleasant time. Prof. Bray's orchestra will furnish music as heretofore. Orders for hacks should be left at Corbett's stables.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The latest announcement from John Cran & Co. is that they are in receipt of goods per last steamer and which have been opened. Cran & Co. have a faculty for fitting up show windows that is sure to attract the attention of almost every passer-by, and the latest display is far superior to any yet made by the firm. They are doing a big business.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were read and adopted;

Resolved, That the Auditor and Clerk be and is hereby authorized to draw a warrant on the treasury for the sum of $19 74 for the payment of the assessment against the city of Portland, for the improvement of the intersection of Montgomery and Front streets.

Resolved, That notice be given that the Common Council propose to improve F street from the east line of East Park street to the west line of West Park street, by grading and laying sidewalks and crosswalks.

Resolved, That the committee on public park be authorized to have fence around the park put in good condition, provided the cost of same shall not exceed the sum of $50.

Resolved, That the Auditor and Clerk be and is hereby authorized and directed to issue warrants for the collection of all street assessments due at this date.

On motion Council adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

Concert.—To-morrow (Friday) evening a grand vocal and instrumental concert will be given at New Market Theater in aid of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. The concert has been tendered by a number of the leading amateur musicians of Portland. Mr. Henry Harris, who is a very clever musician, will have personal direction of the concert. This fact will be a sufficient guarantee that the affair is entrusted to competent, experienced hands, and cannot fail to prove highly satisfactory to the public. The proceeds will be devoted to the Hospital, of which the treasury is depleted. Money cannot be more charitably bestowed than in the support of this most praiseworthy institution. Aside from the claim which the Hospital has on the benevolently-disposed of this community, the entertainment promises to be well worthy of public patronage. We hope to see a crowded house.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Welch, of Chance & Welch, dentists, has returned from an extended trip to Astoria and will be found at his office as usual.

Broadway candies and gold fish at S. L. Stone's.

Two button kid gloves or gauntlets for $1 at Mrs. Charles Tichnor's, First street.

Masquerade suits and trimmings, at J. Harris & Son's.

The ladies say the weather is delightful, and everybody says Barnes' lunches are excellent.

Worsted reduced to 15 cts per ounce, at Mrs. Charles Tichnor's, First street.

Cosmetic gloves for making the hands soft, white and beautiful; to be worn at night. Sent to any address on receipt of $2 50; mention size of glove usually worn. Ladies can have old gloves prepared for $1. Address Mrs. S. Lord, First street, next door to Oak, Portland.

Captains and pilots will note the fact that Peter Wilhelm has fitted up two rooms for their especial use at the Fountain, corner Ash and First streets. Number of English papers on file, including the London Daily Shipping and Mercantile Gazette.

Mrs. B. A. Owens, M.D., Office and residence, east side First street, between Yamhill and Taylor. Special attention given to Women and Children complaints. Also gives Medicated Vapor Baths, combined with Electricity, in treating Rheumatism and Chronic Diseases.

We sell S. H. Kennedy's Hemlock Sheep Dip. The best and cheapest dip known, and will send a valuable book to sheep owners free on application. J. McCRAKEN & CO. Portland, Oregon.

For good kid gauntlets at $1 a pair, go to the Emporium of Fashion.

Birmingham, the practical upholsterer, 156 First street, attends to the upholstering of parlor suits, lounges, easy chairs, etc., in the very latest styles. HEMORRHOIDS OR PILES.

Dr. T. F. Wightman, the originator and proprietor of the "Wightman Process" for the cure of Piles, blind or bleeding, is at present in San Francisco, California, where all letters should be addressed. Persons desiring the "process" can have it sent C. O. D. by express. The success that Dr. T. F. Wightman had a year since in Oregon in curing the diseases of the rectum will be his recommendation. I refer to the following patients in Oregon—I have no "agents": Jno. M. Bacon, P. M., Oregon City; E. M. Waite, Salem; A. Jennings, engineer O. & C. R. R., and many others.

Address Dr. T. F. Wightman, Cosmopolitan Hotel, San Francisco, Cal.

"Make Hayes while the sun shines;" and remember that a drink of Noble Whisky to-day is better than leaving it until to-morrow. Proverbs explained at Millard & VanSchuyver's, 39 Front st.

DR. HALPRUNER

Has removed his office to his residence, Eighth and Market streets. Persons can have their feet treated at their residence or hotel, by dropping a postal card, or leaving word at C. H. Woodard's drug store, or at the clothing store of Mr. [illegible] Kohn.

Mr. E. P. Lilienthal was serenaded last night by the employees of his establishment, who played the new "Noble March," dedicated to him. The March can be seen without music at all places selling Noble Whisky.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A Story Concerning the Lost Steamer Geo. S. Wright.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

Victoria, B. C., April 4.—The gunboat Rocket arrived to-night from the north, where she went seventeen days ago to inquire into the alleged massacre of 15 people belonging to the wrecked American steamship George S. Wright, in 1874. From Sergeant Bloomfield, of the Victoria police, we learn that two Kinisgut and two Wakenas were arrested at Kinisgut on suspicion of being implicated in the massacre of the passengers of the George S. Wright, and brought down on the war vessel. At Kinisgut village, at the head of Dean's canal, the officers were fired at by the Indians. The next morning the Rocket shelled and burnt the village to the ground. Sergeant Bloomfield, from inquiries made and facts revealed, feels confident that some of the crew and passengers reached the shore alive, and were afterward murdered in cold blood. It is apparent that nearly all the Indians knew more or less of the affair, but were afraid to speak. The Indian previously reported as being saved from the wreck is said to be one who served a long term in the Victoria jail. The Indian prisoners have been lodged in jail.

The Coal Miners' Strike.

The strike at Wellington continues. A writ of ejectment has been served against miners occupying the company's houses.

Shipping.

The bark Cassandra Adams with 2,060 tons of coal, has sailed from Nanaimo for San Francisco.

Shock of Earthquake.

A severe shock of earthquake was felt here at half past 5 o'clock this morning, movement from east to west, accompanied by a loud noise, as of a loaded truck passing through the streets. People were much frightened, but no damage was done.

We made a careful inspection of the stock at Beck & Waldman's yesterday and must confess our astonishment, not only to find a fine assortment, but remarkably low prices. In view of these considerations it is no wonder the firm do a good business.

Rubber gloves for protecting and beautifying the hands. Wear at night. Price $1 50; post paid by mail. Mrs. M. A. WARNER.

The school election is a thing of the past, but not the coffee made by Fabre.

Go to Kohn's Clothing Palace and get one of those fashionable spring suits, just received.

For ladies' corsets at low prices go to the Emporium of Fashion.

CORN REMEDY.

Dr. Halpruner's Patent Salve, for the cure of Corns, Bunions, &c., is for sale by all druggists.

The Medical Institute of Dr. W. L. Adams, corner of First and Salmon streets will be removed to Hood river in a few months. Till then chronic diseases of men and women will be treated in Portland as usual. An accomplished lady assistant to give baths to ladies and assist in their treatment always in the office.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph T. Inman, Station D, Bible House, New York City.

NOTICE.

The undersigned in taking leave of Portland returns his sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that has been bestowed, and would bespeak for his successors a continuance of the same.

Both DRS. BARBER & NICKLIN, are gentlemen in every way competent and worthy of any confidence that may be placed in them, and as such I can conscientiously recommend them to my former friends and patrons. J. H. HATCH.

Good Advice.

Now is the time of year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, etc. Every family should have a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Don't allow for one moment that cough to take hold of your child, your family or yourself. Consumption, Asthma, Pneumonia, Croup, Hemorrhages and other fatal diseases may set in. Although it is true German Syrup is curing thousands of these dreaded diseases, yet it is much better to have it at hand when three doses will cure you. One bottle will last your whole family a winter and keep you safe from danger. If you are consumptive, do not rest until you have tried this remedy. Sample bottles 10 cents; regular size 75 cents. Sold by your Druggist. Agents, Crane & Brigham, Wholesale Druggists San Francisco.

Friedlander's Failure.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—The failure of I. Friedlander, a prominent grain operator, was announced to-day. Mr. Friedlander states that in case he can collect the amounts due him, his unsecured indebtedness will be about $600,000, as nearly as he can judge from the present condition of affairs. The indebtedness is entirely local and affects but few persons or firms, all of whom can stand it with perhaps the exception of one or two in the interior. He attributes his failure to some extent to losses on charters, having early in the season chartered vessels at comparatively high figures, which he was subsequently obliged to recharter at much lower rates; but the greatest weight under which he labored was the condition of affairs in San Joaquin valley. He had purchased large tracts there which he subsequently sold to farmers who paid down a small portion of the purchase money. Bad crops prevented a continuance of these payments, and he advanced means to enable them to seed the ground and continue business. Last year a portion was repaid him, but the gloomy prospects for the present season in that section of the country convinced him it was useless to struggle longer. A meeting of his creditors will be held Saturday or Monday next, when the future course will be decided. The report has created great surprise and called forth much sympathy in the city.

The failure of Mr. Friedlander is the principal topic of conversation, and rumor has been running wild as usual. The facts already telegraphed may be relied upon as correct as far as they go. As regards the creditors, whose names Mr. Friedlander at present declines to mention, it is reported on apparently good authority that the principal one is the Nevada bank. It is known that after the failure of the Bank of California, Mr. Friedlander transferred his accounts for some two months to the London & San Francisco bank, from which they were carried to the Nevada bank. The officers of that bank decline to make any statement, but it is reported Mr. Friedlander owes them upwards of $1,000,000 secured on real estate. There is also a reported indebtedness to the bank of California contracted prior to the failure of that institution of several thousand dollars, also secured on real estate. Falkner, Bell & Co. are reported to hold his notes for some $200,000, and Balfour, Guthrie & Co. for about half that amount. There seems to be good grounds for the belief that arrangements will be made by the creditors to enable Mr. Friedlander to resume at an early date. He states personally that the failure of the Bank of California placed him in a very cramped position for available funds, from which he has not since been able to extricate himself.

Train Collision.

SACRAMENTO, April 4.—The West bound passenger train collided with the East bound freight on the mountain division of the C. P. R. R. near Cascade, about 12 miles this side of the summit at six this morning. Two engineers and two firemen killed. A special engine conveying friends of the unfortunate trainmen left at noon for the scene of the wreck. No passengers injured so far as known here. The passenger train due here at 10:45 this morning will not arrive before 1 A. M. tomorrow, and not reach San Francisco before 7 A. M. to-morrow.

On being advised of the failure of Friedlander, interior banks holding his notes to the amount of $400,000, at once offered to carry them three or six months without interest. This offer was declined, as he accommodation would still fall short of the necessities of the case. Mr. Friedlander states concerning the results of his tonnage operations for the season that charters which last June promised a profit of $250,000 has actually made a loss of 150,000. He denies owing either Balfour, Guthrie & Co. or Falkner, Bell & Co. any amount whatever, and while still declining to name his unsecured creditors, says they are all in the interior of the State, and every dollar indebtedness to city creditors is amply secured.

A Canard.

The police authorities here say the report telegraphed from New York to-day that correspondence had passed between the chiefs of police of New York and San Francisco relative to Charley Ross, supposed to be in this city, is a canard.

Accidental Death.

SAN JOSE, April 4.—Aaron Jones, of San Felipe, a farmer, was thrown from his wagon in the hills on Saturday, and died this morning of the injuries. He was 47 years old, and highly esteemed.

Some of the Chico Murderers Indicted.

OROVILLE, April 4.—The grand jury will conclude its business at an early hour tomorrow and leave for home. Very much surprise is manifested that an affair that has created so much notoriety as the Chico massacre has, should be disposed of in such order. Had two weeks time been employed in the investigation of the whole affair, the people would have been much better pleased. The District Attorney claims that the last arrests were made prematurely, and as a result Jethro C. Swain, White, alias Williams, W. C. Roberts, the old man Shuffleton, Clinton, Ames, Smith and Sinclair are again turned loose, and as I write this, are packing their blankets ready to depart for their old haunts in Chico. There is some evidence against them, it is said, but not enough to hold them. It remains to be seen whether or not the people will acquiesce in the verdict of the jury so hastily arrived at. One of the Chico lawyers is positive that if the crowd go back to that place the people will turn and take the law in their own hands. He claims they will be compelled to do this or leave their property exposed to a merciless band. Without official information on the subject, yet I am certain that indictments have been found against John and Charles Slaughter, E. R. Roberts, F. E. Conway and T. W. Stainbrook for murder. It is also well known that several indictments have been found for crime of arson against those engaged in burning the old and new Chinatown soap factory and Mrs. Patrick's barns. The arson cases will be tried in a few days in the county court, while the murder cases will come up at the May term of the district court before Judge Station. The jury has just been drawn consisting of 40 persons, some of them Caucasians, to meet at the court house on the 16th of April, at which time the arson cases will come up for trial. C. H. Chapman, one of the leading members of the citizens' committee of Chico, is among the number drawn. Later news has been sent to Chico of the coming of the Council of Nine. Swain has wisely concluded to remain with us until he learns of the reception met with by the rest. Smith has concluded not to go back at present, but will look for employment at Sugar Pine mill. My last dispatch spoke of the jury as weak men. They are among our best citizens, but wholly unfitted to investigate such matter as was brought before them. Three or four years' work only on cases like this certainly proves them to be entirely unfitted for so responsible a position as this, and while they had no wish to be selected, would have greatly preferred to have been excused. It is most unfortunate for the good name of the country that men more experienced in such matters could not have been drawn.

ARIZONA.

Indian Affairs.

SAN DIEGO, April 4.—A special to the Union from Tucson just received says: Indian Agent Clum is in town. The Indians of San Carlos are quiet. Chiricahuas renegades at Hot Springs have surrendered some stock stolen.

The Eastern mail brings news that the Denver and Rio Grande railway has secured funds to build the road to Cimmaron, New Mexico. A large amount of government funds arrived safely at the depository to-day under military escort.

THE TERRITORIES.

Ten divorce cases are on the docket at Walla Walla.

Edward Daniels, an inebriate, committed suicide at Port Ludlow a few days ago.

District court is in session at Olympia, Judge Greene presiding. Docket is small.

The sawmill at Port Discovery, Puget Sound, has been overhauled throughout and has started up again.

The new house of worship built by the Unitarians at Olympia, is nearly completed. The Episcopalians at the same place will greatly improve their church building.

Hauling wood is too expensive at Walla Walla, and Blalock & Co. are preparing to build eight miles of flume along the south fork of the Walla Walla river to float down wood and lumber.

Whitman county, W. T., is improving rapidly. A flouring mill will be erected near the mouth of Almota creek and a ferry established across Snake river at that point. The yield of grain this year will be large.

Olympia held an election last Monday. John P. Judson, late Democratic candidate for Delegate to Congress, was elected Mayor. The following Councilmen were elected: Dr. G. G. Turner, Otto Rauke, Marshall Blinn, J. A. Treen, J. S. Dobbins and N. Pattison.

OREGON.

J. M. McCall & Co. announce themselves as publishers of the Ashland Tidings. J. M. Sutton has retired on account of continued ill health.

The Times boasts that Jacksonville is now out of debt and has several hundred dollars lying idle in the treasury.

The following named gentlemen have been elected vestrymen of St. Paul's Church, Salem: Joseph Hoyt, Geo. A. Edes, D. F. Wagner, Dr. A. M. Belt and F. E. Hodgkin.

The Walla Walla Union says that 10,000 acres of new land have been broken in Weston and Milton precincts, Umatilla county, and the plows are still going. The wheat crop will be very large.

The election for city officers occurred at Eugene Monday, resulting in the election of Hon. G. B. Dorris, Mayor; T. G. Hendricks, G. M. Cooper and F. B. Dunn, Councilmen; Geo. Farrel, Marshal; Robt. Fagan, Recorder, and Mr. James, Treasurer.

THE BRITISH NAVY.—According to the testimony of Maj. Gen. Campbell, there are the following number of guns in the British Navy: 578 7 inch guns of 6½ tons each; 140 7 inch guns of 7 tons each; 138 8 inch guns; 638 of 9 tons; 336 10 inch guns; 20 11 inch guns; 21 12 inch guns of 25 tons each; 15 12 inch guns of 35 tons each; 12 of 38 tons each; 2 18 inch guns of 25 tons each; 1 16 inch gun of 81 tons. Four more of these 81 ton guns are nearly completed.

Personals.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The Journal's Washington special says, Hamilton started home this morning. It is stated that Chamberlain refused a foreign mission and will start an office of some kind in New York City.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Eastern Wool Market.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Wool remains quiet, notwithstanding the disposition to work off stock to make room for the new spring clip of California, samples of which are already shown. New spring California is arriving at Boston, but receivers express considerable dissatisfaction with the condition and quality. Several sales that were made of samples to arrive were rejected upon receipt. Holders are asking 17@24c. Fall wool has met better demand at reduced prices; sales of 200 bales of fall at 14@17, and 5,000 lbs choice do at 23; also 35,000 lbs spring, private.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, April 4.—Wool—demand moderate; medium and Ohio and Pennsylvania 30@42, XX 44@46, and XX and picked 48@50; Wisconsin, Michigan and New Hampshire 36@38, for fair and good note combing and delaine 45@42; California fall 10@25. Nothing doing in spring, pulled, super and X at 30@40, the latter for good super.

Clay Street.

WHEREAS, THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE City of Portland deeming it expedient to extend the line of Clay street from the west line of Eighth street to the east line of Tenth street, did on the 21st day of February, 1877, direct the City surveyor to survey said extension, mark the boundaries thereof, and make his report with plat of said proposed street and its boundaries; and the said surveyor having filed his report with plat, which said report has been adopted by Ordinance No. 1935 entitled "an Ordinance adopting the report of the surveyor in the matter of the proposed extension of Clay street, from the west line of Eighth street to the east line of Tenth street."

Now, therefore, all persons interested are hereby notified that the Common Council has appointed C. W. Burrage, S. Norris and I R. Mendenhall, viewers to view said proposed extension of Clay street, and to make an assessment of damages and benefits, said viewers to meet at the office of the Auditor and Clerk, at 10 o'clock A. M., Saturday, April 7, 1877.

The following pieces or parcels of land will have to be appropriated:

All that parcel of land lying between the west line of Eighth street, the east line of Ninth street, the south line of Clay street extended and the line between the Brooke and Steptoe tracts as surveyed and marked out Nov. 1862, containing eight hundred and eighty-two square feet.

All that parcel of land lying between the west line of Eighth street, the east line of Ninth street, the center line of Clay street extended, and the line between the Brooke and Steptoe tracts before described, containing five thousand one hundred and eighteen square feet.

All that parcel of land lying between the west line of Ninth street, the east line of Tenth street, the south line of Clay street extended, and the line between the Brooke and Steptoe tracts as before described, containing two thousand nine hundred and eighty-two square feet.

All that parcel of land lying between the west line of Ninth street, the east line of Tenth street, the center line of Clay street extended and the line between the Brooke and Steptoe tracts as before described, containing three thousand and eighteen square feet.

All that parcel of land lying between the west line of Eighth street, the east line of Ninth street, the North line of Clay street extended, and the center line of Clay street extended, containing six thousand square feet.

All that parcel of land lying between the west line of Ninth street, the east line of Tenth street, the north line of Clay street extended, and the center line of Clay street extended, containing six thousand square feet.

By order of the Common Council.
